THE BURNING OF THE INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

At nine o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb at Delavan, and in a few hours the magnificent building was a blackened heap of ruins. The burning of the Institute was telegraphed to Governor Smith and at eleven o'clock he boarded a special train and went immediately to Delavan. The Institute building was one of the finest in the State. It stood on a commanding site near the village of Delavan, and was surrounded by twenty-two acres of ground belonging to the State. The Institute was legalized by the Legislature in 1852. A building 31x44, two stories high, beside basement and attic, was erected in 1854. Up to 1857, $28,500 had been appropriated by the Legislature for buildings, repairs, and the support of the school; and in 1857, $34,500 were appropriated. In 1860 it was found necessary to enlarge the building, and in that year $98,000 were appropriated for building and the support of the Institute. The west wing, was completed in 1867, which made the building one of the handsomest in Wisconsin. The total cost of the entire structure was $110,000. The loss is a heavy one to the State as there was no insurance.

The Principals of the Institute since its legalization have been as follows: In 1853, H. W. Hubbell, of the Ohio Institution; in 1854, Louis H. Jenkins, of the same Institution; in 1856, J. S. Officer, A. M.; in 1857, H. W. Mulligan, A. M., M. D.; in 1858, Edward C. Stone, of Hartford, Conn.; in 1871, George L. Weed, A. M.; in 1875-9, W. H. DeMotte, LL. D.

Democratic declinations are still on the boom.

Probably Mr. Charles H. Parker will "except."

Both Tilden and Rankin have a hand in the Wisconsin campaign. It looks as if some cipher was connected with it.

Jeff Davis says emphatically that he will not be a candidate for United States Senator. The trouble with Jeff is he don't want to meet Zach Chandler.

The next Democratic story to find believers will be that the Republicans bought up the Democratic Convention, and have hired that party to make no nomination.

It is to be hoped that Ewing will not withdraw from the Ohio campaign. Let him stick. The Republicans want the satisfaction of piling up a big majority against him.

Even the Greenbacks now feel above the Democracy, because they have a candidate, while the Democracy is going about begging and no one will do it the honor to accept.

In New York, the Democrats are engaged in a death struggle with each other. In Ohio some of the leading Democrats are cutting on another's throats. In Wisconsin the Democrats are too sick to quarrel.

Gully will make a good Southern United States Senator. He had the courage to assassinate a helpless young woman for which he receives the thanks of the Democratic party. He is a royal Democratic statesman.

In Massachusetts there are six different parties, four in Ohio, four in New York, and two in Wisconsin—the Republican party and the Greenback. There used to be a Democratic party, but like the State fair balloon, it collapsed.

The latest sensation is the ousting of Bob Ingersoll with the Socialists and Communists. There was too much morality in the Republican party for Bob, the Democratic party was not low enough for him, and hence he takes himself to the Socialists and Communists—the worst elements that ever cursed any country.

Inasmuch as Mr. E. L. Lees said in the Democratic Convention that no citizen had a right to decline a nomination for Governor, and offered a resolution on that subject, why not tender the head of the ticket to him? As far as running is concerned, he would do that as well as any other man the Democrats could name.

"Edison's Fast System of Telegraphy" is the subject of a descriptive paper in the October Scribner and the occasion of the publication of a new portrait of the inventor by Francis Lithrop, which is pronounced by the corps of assistants at Menlo Park the most faithful likeness yet published. This system is the little known Automatic Telegraph which for a year was in operation between New York and Washington, and attained the marvelous speed of several thousand words per minute, but has now disappeared in the litigation of rival companies. An ingenious idea was the introduction of a magnetic circuit at the receiving end of the line to neutralize the effect of what is known as "static charge," viz: the electricity remaining in the line after each closing of the circuit. This short circuit acted as a sponge to absorb immediately this electric charge and prevent the consequent tailing or running together of the signals. Scribner has now had papers on the three discoveries of Mr. Edison, which are regarded by him as the most important, viz: the Electro-Magnet principle (involved in Phonograph, Telephone, etc.); the Carbon Button, and the Automatic Telegraph. The Electric Light remains to be heard from.

THE STATE ADMINISTRATION.

The ninth resolution of the Democratic platform adopted by the mob at Madison last week, reads as follows:

The administration of State affairs ought to be conducted with greater economy, and greater care made to diminish the burden of taxes; that all official salaries and fees, and all expenditures for State charitable, educational, and penal institutions, raised to meet the necessities of high priced times, must now be correspondingly reduced, and all needless boards and commissions abolished; and that the candidates of this convention pledge their best endeavors to pursue a course of retrenchment in public expenditures.

This resolution gives away the so-called Convention as badly as does the nomination of Mr. Mitchell. But it is characteristic of the men who composed the crowd that met to make a Democratic ticket. Every Democrat who is able to read knows full well that the administration of State affairs by Governor Smith and the other officers, has been exceptionally economical and remarkably creditable to the State. A cleaner cut set of public servants was never elected in Wisconsin. The energy of every one of them has been bent to make the administration what it should be—thoroughly honorable and rigorously economical. There have been no unjust or extravagant expenditures; no high salaries paid; no squandering of money on unnecessary improvements. The management of all the charitable, penal, and educational institutions of the State has been judicious, and no money has been wasted upon them. There has been retrenchment practiced and wisdom displayed in every department of the State government. Notwithstanding this unbecoming resolution adopted by a Democratic mob, there is not a Democratic paper in the State that can show where in the administration of Governor Smith has been in any manner extravagant. There can not be a single charge brought against him for any misuse of the public funds or for any act which is not creditable to him and honorable to the State. He has won the confidence of the people, and no amount of insinuations and no number of unbecoming resolutions can deprive him of that confidence or defeat his re-election.

Bragg and the Platform.

After a lapse of two years General E. D. Bragg comes out with a letter stating that he was not the author of the Fond du Lac platform in 1877. He never thought of denying the authorship until the Democratic Convention of 1879 completely upset the flat plank of the old platform. Not wishing to have it appear that he was a Greenbacker in 1877 and voting for hard money in 1879, he writes to the Chicago Times, telling that paper that the Fond du Lac platform was not his, only for as he was a Democrat and was a member of the Convention. He says the practice of calling it the Bragg platform originated in "journals of the most malignant type of radicalism." This can hardly be a fair way of denying the paternity of those flat resolutions. General Bragg was chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. He had the platform in his own pocket. When the Convention re-assembled in the afternoon to permanently organize, he drew from his pocket the batch of resolutions, read them to the Convention, and they were unanimously adopted. Of course he framed them. They were the thoughts of his own mind. They embodied his opinions on financial question. He wanted the National banks abolished. He wanted the government to issue irredeemable paper money. He wanted the bonds paid in greenbacks. He wanted the faith of the nation broken with its creditors. These were his views and he expressed them in the Fond du Lac platform, and every delegate in the Convention voted for the adoption of the resolutions. It will not do for General Bragg to hurl epithets at Republican paper because they call it his platform. By making himself the custodian of the platform, it became his and has been so designated. K. L. D. Potter did not frame the "Potter Law," but he introduced the bill, and thereafter in Europe as well as in this country, it was designated as the Potter Law. In this manner in hundreds of instances have the names of men been associated with certain prominent measures. It is said that David Wilcox did not write the proviso which bore his name, and which became famous, and the source of great agitation throughout the country at that time.

But evidently General Bragg has become ashamed of his platform of 1877, and now wants to charge against malignant "Republican," the practice of attaching his name to those resolutions. He is, or seems to be, disgusted with the somersaulting of his party on the financial question, and don't want any responsibility attached to him. But the quibbling of General Bragg will not clear him from such responsibility; and however much he may dislike a dish of crow, he is compelled to eat it. We presume no Democrat can be found willing to acknowledge that he wrote the Fond du Lac platform; and it is hard to find a Democrat who will confess that at Ekhoron on the 21st of August, 1878, he voted to adopt the worst kind of flat resolutions. It was said at the time that General Bragg, who then seemed to be in league with the flatists, deserted the Ekhoron platform, and very likely he did for it was a twin sister of that of 1877.

The Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Delavan Destroyed by Fire.

MADISON, Sept. 16, 1 p. m.—The Deaf and Dumb Asylum, at Delavan, took fire at 9 o'clock this morning and is now burning, and nothing can prevent its total destruction.

POLITICAL.

The Democratic Dilemma—The State Committee—A New Convention.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—A rumor is current here to-night that a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee has been called for Thursday of the present week; but whether here or at Oshkosh those giving currency to the rumor are unable to say. A strong sentiment in favor of another convention is developing outside of the ring of party managers who propose to leave the selection of a head for the Democratic ticket to the State Central Committee. It is hourly becoming more and more evident that the Democracy are badly adrift in consequence of the failure of the Mitchell "boom," and that a most disastrous defeat awaits their ticket. The blame of the Mitchell fiasco is charged directly upon the Hon. Harrison C. Hobart by prominent Democratic leaders of this city. The exercise of a moderate amount of charity, however, would give misery company by adding the name of Mayor Black to Hobart's as being directly responsible for the middle into which the party has been tumbled.

The Hon Joseph Rankin was encountered by the Tribune correspondent this morning, and asked when the Democratic State Central Committee will meet to fill the vacancy at the head of the State ticket. "Not till Mr Mitchell lands in New York," was the reply. "Have you reached any conclusion as to who will be nominated?" asked the correspondent. "Not definitely; but I feel safe in saying that the candidate will come from the extreme northern or northwestern part of the State. We must have a man from the interior; and not a Milwaukee man, as has been proposed. The nominee will probably come from the northwest part of the State, and the ticket be changed so as to give a candidate for Lieutenant Governor from Milwaukee."

The Hon. P. V. Deuster, who was a lieutenant here suggested the propriety of placing in nomination for Governor some honest old Granger, possessing at least average ability, and taking Mr. Rankin by the arm, walked him down toward the Seabote office.

It can be added that the name of the Hon. Gilbert L. Park, of Stevens Point, is suggested, and freely mentioned for the vacant place on the ticket.

BLOWN UP.

An Ohio Hotel Blown Up by Gunpowder.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 15.—The Corbin Hotel, occupied by Henry Corbin at Westerville, this county, was blown up last night by gunpowder, and although the building was occupied by a number of people, no one but Corbin was injured, and he not fatally. It is not known who placed the powder in the building, but Corbin asserts it was done by some of the villagers, and is the outcome of his refusal to cease selling liquor in the village. Four years ago a building he occupied as a saloon was demolished by gunpowder, and Corbin left the town, only returning a short time ago. All attempts to arrest the guilty parties proved a failure. The damage to the hotel, and numerous adjoining buildings, will be $8,000. The citizens of Westerville insist that while they favored reporting to stringent measures to prevent liquor selling in the town, they never favored such measures as those resorted to last night.

ANDREW JACKSON.

He Turns up in Milwaukee, and is Drugged and Robbed.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—This evening a piano agent named Andrew Jackson, from Chicago, a new comer, was drugged and robbed. Besides the proceeds of the sale of an instrument, $240, a gold watch and the chain was taken from him. He states that he became unconscious after he left Corcoran's saloon, at Grand Avenue bridge. The drug so prostrated him that he became subject to convulsions and now lies in a critical condition.

OBITUARY.

BRATTLEBORO, Sept. 15.—Austin Birchard, uncle of President Hayes, an old and honored citizen of Windham County, died at Fayetteville this afternoon.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Motley's Life of John of Barneveld—A Republican-By J. L. Motley. New York: Harper & Bros., 1879. Chicago, Janesville, Milwaukee & Co. 2 vols. 324 and 415 pages. Cloth, $1. For sale by the Janesville Book Dealers.

One of the greatest political characters of modern times, one to whose life is attached remarkable interest, was John of Barneveld, grand pensionary of Holland, born in 1549, and beheaded May 13, 1619. In the hands of the historian Motley, John of Barneveld becomes a grand subject, not grander, however, than he should be, for he was one of the most conspicuous men of his time. It is a life well worth reading by all students of history. The Harpers are to be thanked for issuing this important work in a very attractive style, and at a price which is within the reach of all. This is the last issue in the Historical Series of Harper Bros. The series now comprises fifteen volumes and is sold for the low price of $2 per volume. The typography, binding and general appearance of this series, are a credit to that firm. This enterprise of one of the greatest publishing houses in this country challenges admiration. They seem to be encouraged by the success of their experiment, and it is now perhaps their intention to issue all the historical works in their issue in this form. We sincerely hope that this may prove to be the case. All the standard historians in uniform volumes would be a convenience to the public, and an ornament to the libraries which those who see books, as well as those who read them, could appreciate.

TRUE REPUBLIC. By ALBERT SICKNEY. New York: Harper & Bros., Chicago, Janesville, Milwaukee & Co. 2 vols. 324 and 415 pages. Cloth, $1. For sale by the Janesville Book Dealers.

This little book which is a model of neat binding and excellent printing, is an important addition to our political literature. It is a book which must meet with a large sale, and which will play an important part in rightly educating the young men of this country in regard to what this government is and what it should be. It is indeed refreshing to meet with an American who in talking or writing politically, is brave enough to say precisely what he thinks, and whose courage is based upon perfect trust in the honesty and good sense of the people. He proposes the question affirmatively, how shall we get the best public services of the best men? He proceeds to answer the question in a direct and searching tone, in a crisp, pointed, and interesting style, and with a vehemence of conviction and assurance which bears the reader irresistibly along. The book is small, and in that it is to be commended, but it is so bright and full of good thoughts, that the reader will not fail to read it through and be profited thereby. It is written in a thoroughly American spirit. It is not the work of a political pessimist, or of an American dazzled by the monarchy of Europe. It is a plea for more American America.

Some Labor-Reform Theories.

October Atlantic.
Our friends regard the production and perpetuation of wealth as being due almost entirely to labor. They often say that laboring men—as distinct from the class of capitalists and cultivated people—have created the wealth of the country, and it is sometimes added that it justly belongs to them. The working people do not generally understand how much the production and existence of wealth depend upon other elements than mere muscular exertion. They do not appreciate the part which is performed by cultivated men and capitalists in organizing and equipping business enterprises, in adapting production to the markets of the world, and in so directing the labor of multitudes of men and the use of costly machinery as not to impair the capital invested. They do not even understand clearly that the destruction of capital ruins the laborers of the country by destroying the business which gives them employment. Many laborers think they are in some way benefited by the general lowering of wages, and the means of legislation "in the interests of labor," and by severe taxation, most of the wealth now in the possession of rich men and corporations can be transferred, without impairment, to the hands of the working people. I think the actual result, if their plans could be carried out, would be the gradual annihilation and expulsion of the wealth of the country. There would no longer be any disparity of conditions between rich and poor, because all would be poor alike. Our organized industries would be destroyed. All machinery which requires the cooperation of many laborers would be dissolved, and we should be obliged to return to the conditions and methods of life of the days before the introduction of improved labor saving machinery, when the people of our country depended almost wholly upon agriculture and such manufactures as could be carried on in their homes. The world's wealth will not be perpetuated or reproduced if the essential conditions under which it has been created are destroyed.

It might not make right or justice on the side of the people, any more than on that of the tyrannical few who are regarded as oppressors. Excessive taxation is robbery, though the guilt and dishonor of it may be distributed among millions of voters. When the people make a law which compels the capitalists of a city to deliver up the wealth at their disposal to the city treasury, for distribution among the laborers of the municipality, in the form of unnecessary and dishonest appropriation for improvements, the act is not more honest because committed by the people under the forms of law. It is not wise to teach the people of our country that nothing in their political action can be wrong or unjust; that robbery and injustice are to be accounted right when perpetrated by the majority by means of the ballot.

Falling Asleep Together.

From the Syracuse Herald.
About six years ago a certain prominent man died in a neighboring village, leaving as the only survivors of the highly respectable stock represented by his family, his mother aged about ninety, and an invalid sister aged about thirty. There also survived his second wife, a woman about forty years of age. The deceased left his mother, sister and wife comfortably well off in a nice home. This spring the wife turned the aged mother and invalid sister out of doors. "Mammy," as the old lady was familiarly known by the villagers, and "Libbie," the daughter, were both on the very verge of the grave. Mammy from old age, Libbie from the ravages of consumption. They were beloved by all of the villagers on account of their purity of heart and beautiful characters. The kind hearted neighbors secured an upper room for them in a house near their old home, and contributed articles of furniture, food, medicine and anything else which love could suggest to make as comfortable as possible the few remaining days which they might on earth. Lying in separate beds in the same room the last days were passed by mother and sister. The wish of each was that they might enter the dark valley together. Libbie could not be moved, but Mammy would insist on being taken over to Libbie's bed every little while to assure herself that her daughter was still alive. The conversations of the two were most affecting; they were of resignation, hope and mutual love. One night while Mammy was asleep, Libbie breathed her last. When the old lady awoke her first question was concerning her daughter. When told she was dead she said, "I'm so glad she is out of pain. I wish now that I could go to sleep and not wake." And her wish was gratified, for, closing her eyes in peaceful slumber, she soon passed into that sleep which knows no waking. A single funeral sermon was pronounced over mother and daughter.

Marriage Settlement.

New York Times.
The American father, with very rare exceptions, expects a son-in-law to undertake entire maintenance, and as a young man graphically expresses it, "the utmost the old man offers you is a room in the back part of the house." When this country was young, and people's ideas of what was necessary for living were on a most moderate scale, this might have done very well, but now-a-days it is often passing hard on the young man. It is absurd to say a man is marrying for money because he says he cannot marry without it. A young man with $3,000 a year makes a rash venture if he should marry a girl reared in great luxury with nothing but a trousseau; but if her father would settle $3,000 a year on her the case is materially altered. A mere allowance, revocable at will, or certain to terminate in the event of a financial catastrophe, is very small satisfaction to the young man. A principal reason why in Europe some, however small, substantial settlement is insisted on is with a view not merely to the interests of the married pair and their children, but to those of the families on either side; for when young Brown marries Miss Robinson, old Brown and old Robinson clearly recognize the certainty of young Mrs. Brown and their children coming down upon their respective families in the event of trouble, unless such contingency is duly provided against by ante nuptial provision. In the case of persons of small means, such provision is of course but slender aid, but even in the case of the very poor, it is usually sufficient to give the poor a root tree, with food, clothes and fire. There is not a shadow of doubt that the refusal of fathers to make a settlement on daughters prevents many women from making highly desirable marriages, and tends more than taught else to well the rapidly augmenting ranks of mature spinsterhood!

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—Bolt out the burglars.
—Clean out the soot before you start the blaze.
—The churches are busy arranging the choirs for another year's work.
—St. George's Benevolent Society hold a semi-monthly meeting this evening.
—The Council will soon offer chronos to everybody who will ask for a lamp-post.
—To-night is the festival and ball for the benefit of the Sisters of St. Joseph's Convent.
—E. B. Helmstreet took the first premium at the State Fair on his line of chemicals. Quite a feather.
—The Empire Cross Spring Company took the first premium at the State Fair, and won it fairly and squarely on merits.
—Among those who have been buying too weight of H. D. McKinney lately are Horatio Seymour Jr., and Robert Jenner.
—Frank E. Fellows pleaded guilty at Elkhorn yesterday, but the case was certified to the Supreme Court for a decision on the law in the case.
—Dimock & Hayner have been made agents for the London & Lancashire fire insurance company, an old and solid company which has just commenced doing business in this country.
—The Silsbee College opened its fall and winter session yesterday under very favorable prospects. Prof. Silsbee received the first premium for penmanship at the State Fair again this year.
—H. D. McKinney has received from New York two fine brood mares and three colts, blooded, and of great promise. If there is any man in this section who loves fine stock, and knows how to handle it, that man is McKinney.
—The Janesville Council of Select Templars met last night and initiated one member in the sixth degree. It was decided to change the hour of meeting hereafter to 7:30 o'clock. At the first meeting in October officers will be nominated.
—Among the attractions offered at the Monroe Fair next Friday, besides the military display by the Janesville Rifles, will be an exhibition of hippodrome racing by two bareback riders, a half-mile dash, each rider standing on two horses.
—C. K. Rostad, of Center, has left at the Gazette office a sample of sorghum syrup which for clearness and flavor is hard to equal. He is having remarkably good success in making syrup, and evidently thoroughly understands the business.
—The annual reception of the Mutual Improvement Club is to be given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jenk L. Jones next Friday evening. An invitation is extended to all interested in culture and the furtherance of the same by mutual improvement.
—Young America is always lively. That's one reason Thos. Leech has thus named his dry goods house. He is all ready for the fall trade, and so announces in another column, and judging by the way the customers are crowding to his counters the fall trade is ready for him. Read his manifesto and take heed thereto.
—George Stockton has his store crowded with new and attractive goods for fall and winter wear, but it won't be crowded long unless he gets more goods, for the customers are walking off with the bundles at a lively rate. No wonder. The prices are way down and the quality of the goods way up. See what he has to say about it elsewhere.
—J. W. Nash, his son Walla Nash, and Eddie Potter were the victims of a runaway this afternoon, on Jackson street. Mr. Nash and his son were thrown out but not seriously hurt. The buggy in which they were riding collided with the delivery wagon of the store, and the horse attached thereto also broke into a run, but no great damage was done except to the buggy which was badly wrecked.
—The Monroe Reformer contains the news that a fourteen-year-old son of Stephen Lewis, of the town of Brooklyn, was found hanging dead in the barn last Friday. It is not thought to be suicide, but is explained from the fact that the boys used the rope as a swing and were in the habit of fastening it around their waists. It is probable that it slipped to his neck and strangled him before he could get free.

PERSONAL.

—Hoe T. D. Weeks, of Whitewater, is the city to-day.
—Charlie Botsford of Green Bay, son of J. R. Botsford, is in the city greeting friends.
—Miss Minnie Guernsey is planning to soon go to Boston and further her educational attainments by a post-graduate course.
—C. E. Dennis, who became well known here by his musical talents during his short stay in this city recently, is going to remain with the Church Choir Pianos Company, having withdrawn from his engagement with the Clement Brothers. He is soon to take the part of "Ralph."
—A. H. Sheldon and family will leave tomorrow for the South, where they will spend six weeks or two months. They will visit Washington and other cities, and will go to Virginia, North and South Carolina, visiting a part of the time at Mrs. Sheldon's old home in North Carolina. The trip is to be for pleasure wholly, and that it may prove so in all respects is the wish of their many friends.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVERTON, DRUGGISTS.
The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 64 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m., to-day at 45 degrees; at 7 o'clock a. m., at 49 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m., at 70 degrees above. Cloudy.
One year ago to-day at 7 o'clock a. m., the thermometer stood at 67 degrees above, and at 2 o'clock p. m. at 81 degrees above.
The indications to-day are, clear or partly cloudy weather, northwest backing to southwest winds, stationary or higher temperature, and rising followed by stationary or falling barometer.

In accordance with a motion Alderman Church the following places were selected for holding the coming election:

HAPPY HOSPITALITY.

One of the pleasantest social gatherings which has occurred in this city was that last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Amos P. Prichard. The occasion was given an additional tinge of interest from the fact that it was the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage, although the fact was modestly omitted from their invitations. The parlors presented a very attractive appearance, and were beautifully adorned with bright flowers and green plants, and were animated by the presence of about seventy-five guests, all made happy by the generous hospitality so graciously extended by the worthy host and hostess. The evening passed quickly, so much of enjoyment was crowded therein. As a happy break in the merry chat of the guests, there were pleasing songs by Mrs. J. W. St. John and Mrs. C. B. Conrad, and readings by Miss Minerva Guernsey, one of her selections being from Dickens and the other "George Washington at the Centennial." Both singers and reader acquitted themselves with great credit, and added much to the pleasure of the assembled guests. Refreshments were served at a seasonable hour, and like all the other arrangements of the evening they betokened good cheer and hearty hospitality. The occasion was in all respects a happy and modest celebration, and will long be remembered by all the participants, who will be joined by many other friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Prichard great joy as they further pursue life's journey together.

CONFESSES TO MURDER.

Thomas Ellis, who has some relatives and many acquaintances here, yesterday pleaded guilty at Chicago to the murder of David O'Neil, yandmaster at the North-western depot. The shooting occurred on the 20th of last February, and the details are still fresh in the minds of our readers. Ellis had before pleaded not guilty, but by advice of his counsel, W. H. Ebbets, changed his plea to guilty. The only seemed so strong against him that his protest seemed to be to throw himself upon the mercy of the court. Judge Baranum, before whom the prisoner was brought, heard some witnesses as to the main facts of the shooting, and the ante-mortem statement of David O'Neil was read, charging Ellis with being his assassin. On behalf of the defendant several witnesses were introduced showing his previous good character, the fact that it was nothing unusual for him to carry a revolver, and the further fact that he was very quick-tempered. This is said to be only the second plea of this kind which was ever entered in Cook county, the first being an Italian who was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary. There were some extenuating circumstances in that case, and the scarcity of them in this renders it not unlikely that the penalty will be much more severe.

A NEW SCHOOL.

Messrs Valentine Brothers, who have so long and successfully conducted the Western School of Telegraphy, are preparing to open a commercial school here on a large scale to furnish thorough instruction in all branches of business. They are now corresponding with various parties concerning instructors, and propose to get the very best to be had in the country. As soon as they secure the necessary corps of teachers they will open up the school in this city, the exact location being not yet decided. They purpose to keep up the School of Telegraphy as of old, and the commercial school will be an entirely separate institution. It is planned to have such a corps of instructors and such facilities as will attract hither students from all over the country, as well as bring a due amount of home patronage. No money is to be spared to make the school one of the best in the land, and the fact that Valentine Brothers are at the head of the enterprise is a guarantee that it will be pushed with vigor and crowned with success.

ANOTHER ROOM.

The insurance business of Dimock & Hayner is just booming about these days. As the cool weather comes on they are the liveliest ants in the sugar bowl, and the busiest bees in the hive.

The fact is, that long experience in the business, prompt payment of losses, sound, solid old companies, and low rates, will tell.

CITY NOTICES.

Dr. Beebe, Eye and Ear Surgeon, successfully treats this and all other diseases of his specialty. Can be consulted at the Myers house, Wednesday, September 17, from 12 to 5 o'clock.

—There will be an auction sale of farming tools and stock on the farm of A. H. H. Kins, one and one-half miles east of Janesville, on Wednesday, the 17th, it being the property of Joshua Hoskins. Any person wishing to buy any such property should remember the time and place.
